TAX BILL GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY

Republican Caucus Defers Consideration of Bonus.

LONGWORTH MOTION PREVAILS

Soldier Bonus Bill to Be Taken Up by the Ways and Means Committee While the Tax Measure Is Under Consideration in the House—Soldier Bloc to Renew Fight on the Floor of the House.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Consideration of the soldier bonus bill by the house ways and means committee was ordered by the Republican conference definitely deferred until after the committee shall have disposed of the Mellon tax reduction legislation.

In adopting this schedule the conference ordered the ways and means committee to report out the tax measure for consideration and action in the house not later than Feb. 11.

The bonus bill will be taken up by the ways and means committee while the tax legislation is under consideration in the house. As extended hearings are not expected, the bonus bill should be ready for the house immediately upon conclusion of the tax measure. The conference, however, refused by a vote of 109 to 86 to require the ways and means committee to favorably report a bonus by Feb. 25.

Representative Fish of New York made an effort to put the conference on record to the effect that a "reasonable tax reduction bill and an adjustable compensation bill should be adopted at this session of congress." He was defeated, the vote being 97 to 94.

Republican Leader Longworth after the conference said that his proposition was carried by virtually a unanimous vote, only one or two nays being heard. The text of his motion was: "Resolved, that it is the sense of the Republican conference that the ways and means committee proceed to the consideration of the bill to reduce taxation to the exclusion of all other legislative propositions, and shall report the same to the house on or before Feb. 11, 1924, and thereafter shall proceed to the consideration of legislation granting adjusted compensation to the veterans of the world war."

It was emphasized by the party leaders that the Longworth motion, which prevailed, carried no commitment to favorable action on the bonus, although it is conceded by everybody that the committee will favor the bill, once it is taken up for action.

The soldier bloc leaders announced after the conference adjourned that they would renew their fight under the liberalized rule to be adopted next week. A motion to discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of the bonus bill will force a test of strength on the floor, where a record vote will be had, and with the Democrats taking part in the decision. Should the proposed motion to discharge prevail, the bonus bill immediately would come up for action in the house.

MAY OUST CUMMINS

Next Move of Coalitionists in United States Senate.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Leaders of the administration forces in the senate have become apprehensive of what further punishments may be in store for them at the hands of the insurgents and Democrats. A move to deprive Senator Cummins of the office of president pro tem may be next on the program, for Democratic leaders announced they will seek to determine the right of Cummins to hold this office by forcing it to a roll call before many days have passed.

The success of the coalitionists Wednesday was the first concrete demonstration of the power they hold at their command to wield the bludgeon over any and all administration measures and run the business of the senate just about as they please. It demonstrated that the administration forces are utterly powerless to dictate the form of legislation or to defeat compromise.

Moscow, Jan. 11.—General Kuropatkin, former commander-in-chief of the Russian armies in the Russo-Japanese war, has been discovered living in the little village of Sheshurino, in Pskov province, where he is the village librarian.

INQUIRY TO BE HELD

Government's Secret Seal Skin Contract Will Be Probed.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Quick action in the senate answered the delay of the senate's expense committee in reporting out the resolution to investigate the government's secret seal skin contract with the fur corporation.

Senator Wheeler of Montana, in another resolution, demanded the discharge of the committee from further consideration of the matter. While this was before the senate the chairman of the expense committee, Senator Keyes of New Hampshire, is understood to have assured Mr. Wheeler that the committee will hold a hearing preliminary to shaping its report. Senator Wheeler is said to have consented to a compromise and will state briefly why the investigation should not be further delayed.

When the manufactures committee gets to work on the hearings, charges that the government already has lost from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 by operation of the secret contract, and stands to lose millions more by its continuance, will be probed.

FIVE SEPARATIST LEADERS SLAIN

French Inaugurate Stern Reprisals Against Germans.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—French authorities and separatists in the Palatinate have inaugurated drastic reprisals against the Germans for the assassination of five separatist leaders and the wounding of several others at Speyer.

The victims were shot while eating their evening meal in a restaurant. They included "President of the Palatinate Republic" Heinz.

Serious street clashes between separatists and citizens preceded the assassinations and flared up anew when the separatists, hearing the news of the deaths of their leaders, proceeded ruthlessly to clear the streets with rifles and bayonets. Five more were killed and several wounded in these street battles.

In retaliation for the assassinations seven of the most prominent citizens of Speyer have been arrested as hostages. Most of the houses and many automobiles of travelers have been searched while the strictest passport control has been introduced. The situation is so grave that the German cabinet set aside other questions to study reports from the scene.

The assassinations were merely the dramatic climax of the bitter struggle which has been going on for months between the French invaders and the German population over the control of the Palatinate. To France the Palatinate has long been the "gate to Germany," the pivotal point at which the lever for Germany's dismemberment should be applied. When the separatist movement fizzled in the north the French concentrated their full fury on the Palatinate, which had ravaged French armies several times in the past.

Lutherans Plan Merger.

Toledo, Jan. 11.—Complete merger of the Ohio and Iowa synods of the United Lutheran Church of America, representing more than 1,700 churches with an aggregate membership of nearly 400,000, was forecast here by a special committee of official representatives of the two large independent Lutheran bodies.

WOULD AMEND CUMMINS ACT

La Follette Begins Attack on Transportation Laws.

SWEEPING CHANGES PROPOSED

One Bill Would Amend Method of Fixing Rates by Providing That All Rates For Transportation Shall Be Fixed Solely on Basis of Cost of Service—Another Calls For Reports on Original Construction Cost.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Senator La Follette fired the opening gun in his long threatened war upon the transportation laws.

He introduced two proposed amendments to the Esch-Cummins act and the railroad valuation act. Both measures were referred to the interstate commerce committee, of which Senator Smith (Dem., S. C.) was elected chairman by the senate.

The first amendment proposes a sweeping change in the method of fixing rates by providing that all rates for transportation shall be fixed solely upon the basis of the cost of service. The amendment would abolish the existing provisions in the Esch-Cummins law, which guarantees to the railroads a certain fixed return upon their investment.

By cost of service, Senator La Follette means operating expense, plus actual capital cost, which includes interest on bonds and a fair dividend for stock which represents money invested. It rejects the theory that "public utilities are entitled to earn profits on inflated and fictitious values."

The other amendment offered by the senator directs the interstate commerce commission to file at once all reports to date on the original cost of railroad construction. It also provides that where reliable records have not been preserved by the railroads, original cost shall be estimated from the data available. This information is required, the senator pointed out, in order to make it possible to ascertain the capital cost of transportation service as a preliminary to proper adjustment of the rates.

Senator La Follette issued a statement explaining his proposed amendments in which he said: "These amendments, if enacted, will fix as the rate base the amount of money prudently invested in the properties by the owners and will outlaw for rate-making purposes the inflated and fraudulent claims of alleged values now put forward by the railroads. This means a difference of several hundred million dollars a year in the amount of the freight charges that must be paid by the American people and four or five times that much in their cost of living."

SINKS WITH ALL HANDS

British Submarine Rammaged During Maneuvers by Battleship.

London, Jan. 11.—Quite a chapter of accidents marked the departure of the British Atlantic fleet from Portland for the spring cruise. Two of the accidents were really serious. The first was the collision of two submarines, one receiving a smashed bow. This was followed by a collision between the battleship Resolution and the submarine L-24 in which the latter sunk with all on board.

While the L-24 usually carries a crew of 38 men, it was stated that there were additional men aboard for training and there is as yet no way of knowing how many men went down. Frantic efforts to raise the sunken ship were begun. It was not even known whether her hatches were closed when the accident occurred. Efforts to communicate with the crew by undersea telephone and by wireless were unavailing.

RUHR ACCORD SOUGHT

Present Situation Means Ruin For All, Says Stinnes.

Paris, Jan. 11.—"The 15th of April is the extreme limit for a solid, reasonable Ruhr accord to be agreed to by France, or it is ruin for all of Europe," declares Hugo Stinnes, Germany's leading industrialist. "We have two options," he continued. "The first is to liquidate the present situation by a new war and new ruins. The second is for France and Germany to work hand in hand for peace through definite and equitable accords. We accepted the interim accord temporarily, but now our industries are menaced with the necessity of closing down because our money and credit burden is too heavy. We can not last longer than the 15th of April."

DOINGS IN OHIO

Dry Agent Accuses Police.

Cleveland, Jan. 11.—James P. Mangin, state prohibition inspector, charged there was a "gigantic bootlegging ring in the police department here," and that some policemen were operating a private business with money and liquor gleaned through the protection of saloons and bootleggers. The charges were made to United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein following the arrest by Mangin of Police Sergeant Anton Cerba for alleged violation of the liquor law.

Ohio Miners to Meet.

Columbus, Jan. 11.—Renewal of wage agreements with Ohio operators will be one of the principal questions to be considered by Ohio United Mine Workers at their state convention, which opens here Monday. The wage scale agreed upon at termination of the strike two years ago expires this spring. The question will be brought before the convention in report of the scale committee. About 200 delegates, representing 52,000 Ohio miners, will attend.

Witness Accuses Pal.

Caldwell, O., Jan. 11.—Testimony of a pal may send Elmer Farra, Byesville, to the electric chair for the murder of Charles W. Moore, Noble county sheriff. George Siebenschuh, friend and neighbor of Farra, and also indicted with him in the killing of Moore on Nov. 20, testified for the state that the fatal shots were fired by Farra. Moore was slain as he sought to arrest two alleged liquor runners here.

Trustees Walk Away.

Mansfield, O., Jan. 11.—Leo Schuster of Mansfield and Edward Lucas of Jefferson county, two trustees at the Ohio state reformatory, made their escape by walking away from the dairy barn. Schuster was sent up for burglary and Lucas for grand larceny. No trace has been found of the escaped prisoners as yet.

Hit by Train; Two Dead.

Canton, O., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Dan Hosetter, 35, and her five-year-old daughter were instantly killed when the machine in which they were riding was struck by a train at Hartsville, a village 14 miles north of here. Another daughter, aged 3, was seriously injured.

Store Held Up.

Springfield, O., Jan. 11.—A lone bandit held up a branch store of the Morrow Drug company here and escaped with $50. Later F. C. Neeld, coal dealer, was struck over the head by a thug and robbed of $198.50.

Dies of Burns.

Cincinnati, Jan. 11.—Charles Stopkey, 39, stationary engineer, died of burns received when a home-made hot-water heater exploded and drenched him in scalding water.

Claims Ballots Tampered With.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 11.—The Mahoning county grand jury has been asked to probe the councilmanic election here. Former Councilman W. I. Corrigan was returned a winner in the Second ward when the votes were counted election night. He had a lead of 32 over W. R. Lentz, klan-endorsed candidate. Five klan-endorsed councilmen ordered a recount of the vote which showed Lentz a leader by 27 votes. Attorney Oscar E. Diser, counsel for Corrigan, charges "that ballots had been tampered with after the board of elections was given custody of the ballot box."

PLANS APPROVED BY COOLIDGE

Call for Vigorous Operation of Merchant Marine.

PALMER GIVEN FULL POWER

Members of Shipping Board Accept President's Requirement That the Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation Be Separated—Latter, With Palmer at Its Head, to Operate the Merchant Fleet.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Plans for the vigorous operation of the United States merchant marine under the direction of Rear Admiral Leigh Palmer, former naval officer, were unanimously approved by President Coolidge and members of the shipping board.

The approved proposals accept in principle the president's requirement that the shipping board and the emergency fleet corporation be separated, and that the corporation, with Admiral Palmer at its head, operate the merchant fleet. Under the law, the shipping board retains jurisdiction over certain general matters, such as ship sales, trade routes and the allocation of vessels.

Members of the board attending the conference, however, pledged their co-operation and support to Admiral Palmer in an energetic program for the operation of the merchant fleet in effective competition with foreign steamship interests. Certain changes in the shipping act were forecast in order to strengthen Admiral Palmer's hand as the directing head of the government's merchant marine.

President Coolidge himself, it is understood, made plain his determination to have the fleet operated energetically and efficiently in accordance with sound business principles. Under the proposals approved, new vigor will be instilled into the government's merchant marine. Admiral Palmer is to have full authority over the details of fleet operation and behind him stands the president himself.

No effort will be spared to maintain the fleet on a basis of effective competition with steamship interests. Particular attention will be given to strengthening the tie between the American merchant marine on the one hand and American manufacturers and shippers on the other.

TO MEET IN JUNE

Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons to Have Another Battle.

New York, Jan. 11.—Another battle between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons will take place in June. Promoter Tex Rickard stated that he has made an agreement with Gibbons, through his manager, Eddie Kane, and that he expects to get Dempsey in a day or two. "The fight will be held around June 1," the promoter said. "I am not ready now to name the place or date. I will also match Gibbons and Georges Carpentier or Gene Tunney for a bout in Madison Square Garden if it can be arranged." Rickard has come to the conclusion that there is sufficient interest to warrant the promotion of another outdoor meeting between "Man Killer Jack" and the hero of the 15-round stand against the champion at Shelby, Mont., last July.

Film Star Mentioned in Divorce Suit.

Los Angeles, Jan. 11.—The name of Jacqueline Logan, film star, became a rattling skeleton in the closet of George Melford, prominent movie director, when his wife's suit for divorce was tried. "Are you in love with Jacqueline Logan?" asked the court. "I know the young lady, but I am not in love with her. I simply don't love my wife and want to live my life," Melford replied. Judge Summerfield in granting the divorce scored Melford for "casting a fine woman aside after years of wifehood." Mrs. Melford was awarded $200 a week alimony and a property settlement.

To Receive Donations For Miners.

Cleveland, Jan. 11.—A receiving station has been established by Cleveland Federation of Women's club in Hotel Statler for receiving donations of clothing to be sent miners and their families near Athens.

Bribery Charged.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 11.—John N. Carrothers, special state prohibition agent, arrested by county authorities, confessed, according to his interrogators, that he had taken bribes from violators of the liquor law.

SLEW FATHER'S SLAYER

Girl of Fifteen to Go to Trial For Killing Congressman.

Mexico City, Jan. 11.—Maria del Pilar Moreno, child of 15, has for the moment about as much interest for Mexico City as the revolution. Maria, who might have stepped out of a Murrillo painting, will be placed on trial Monday for the murder of Congressman Alberto Tejeda Lorca. He was her father's slayer. She shot him dead when the police, deferring to congressional immunity, failed to arrest him. The foremost criminal lawyers of Mexico have volunteered to defend Maria. Adolfo Gaona, most famous living bull fighter, will be in the jury box. When Maria was arrested after shooting Tejeda Lorca eight months ago, she said that she loved her father, that justice had failed, and so vengeance had fallen to the daughter. Maria's father was a well known publicist. He and the congressman quarreled on the steps of one of the government buildings and the shooting followed. It is generally predicted that the child will be acquitted.

Progressive Road Building.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Road building is becoming one of the principal industries in the United States, according to Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads at Washington. Within the past year, MacDonald said, approximately 40,000 miles of surface were completed in the country, a net gain of 30,000 miles over 1922. "At the beginning of 1923 there was about 400,000 miles of improved roads in existence in the United States and at the present rate of progress this mileage will be doubled in 10 years," MacDonald declared.

Woman For Delegate-at-Large.

Zanesville, O., Jan. 11.—Democrats of the Fifteenth congressional district are fighting to have Mrs. Eleanor Bailey Johnson of this city, national congressional committee woman for Ohio, honored by being made one of the state's delegates-at-large to the next Democratic national convention.

Wanted on Murder Charge.

Columbus, Jan. 11.—Governor Donahy issued extradition papers for Myrtle Atkinson, under arrest at Philadelphia and wanted in Canton on a first degree murder charge. She is charged with the killing of Policeman William Quinn at Canton Sept. 16, 1920.

Youthful Solomon.
Hearing his father grumbling about the high price of coal, a small boy remarked quite solemnly: "I wouldn't buy any more of it if I were you, daddy—we only burn it."

Not Nowadays.
Ladies of quality originally wore masks either to protect their complexions or out of modesty to prevent them from being recognized while out of doors.

From Wool to Sult in a Day.
In numerous industries there have been conspicuous examples of what can be accomplished in the way of speed when human energy as well as mechanical appliances are put to the test against time. For example, an English baronet once wagered that he would dine at seven o'clock in a suit of clothes made from wool which had been growing on the sheep's back the same day. Operations began at five o'clock in the morning with the washing of sufficient sheep to provide the wool. From a neighboring factory the wool was returned as cloth late in the afternoon, but early enough to permit a tailor and his assistants completing the suit by seven o'clock, in plenty of time for the baronet to don it preparatory to sitting down to his evening meal.

Faithful Dog.

The man was trying to sell his dog. "You see," he said, "I bought him and trained him myself. I got him so that he'd bark if a person stepped inside the gate, and I thought I was safe from burglars. Then my wife wanted me to train him to carry bundles, and I did."

"If I put a package in his mouth he would keep it there until some one took it away. Well, one night I woke up and heard movements in the next room. I got up and grabbed my revolver. Two men were there—and the dog."

"Didn't he bark?" interrupted the man.

"Never a bark; he was too busy."

"Busy? What doing?"

"Carrying a lantern for the burglars."

Cats and Weather.

Are cats weather prophets? Do their highly-strung nervous systems respond to changes in the atmosphere? It is an old belief that good weather may be expected when the cat washes herself, but had when she licks her coat against the grain, or sits with her tail to the fire. In superstitious days pussie's response to a coming change in the weather was thought to mean that she had some control over it. A confusion of cause with effect. So sailors were afraid to provoke a cat; in fact they did not like a cat on board ship at all. A frisky cat made them quote the saying: "A cat has a gale of wind in her tail." The way to raise a gale was to throw a cat overboard. Ruffles on a calm surface from a rising wind are still called "cats' paws." In some parts of England a popular name for the stormy northwest wind is the "cat's nose."

IN COAT OF FLAMING COLOR

He flies from twig to twig, a flash of flaming color among the leaves. All eyes rest on him. He is a scarlet tanager.

His plumage is more glaring than the feathers of a cardinal. Nature, ever lavish in color, has piled on him her most glaring combination. Red and black make the most conspicuous color pattern on earth. This motif appears over and over in the realm of nature. Sir Tanager wears them proudly. He wants to be seen.

His mate is not gaudy. She is dressed in a greenish drab, so like the moss on tree trunks that our eyes can hardly discern her.

Sir Tanager wore this plumage, too, in his youth. In those days of hard flying and long travels he did not need to be conspicuous. He would have made too easy an eyeful for hawks.

But it is the mating season. He wants to be seen. What male is there who does not want to appear his best in the eyes of the other sex?

Bee keepers hate tanagers. They claim that these birds sometimes eat their bees. Perhaps this is true. Tanagers catch much of their food on the wing, and who could expect a bird to know the difference between a tame bee and a wild bug?

No more beautiful sight could be imagined than a tanager as he swoops gracefully out from his twig, to snap up an insect quite invisible to human eyes. His red feathers flash, his glossy wings gleam with shining black; you wonder what further word could be added about feathered beauty.—Chicago Tribune.

Jane Austen's Dialogue.

The first thing that strikes anyone who has tried to read Jane Austen's novels aloud is the dramatic power displayed in the conversations. No novelist ever made his or her characters express themselves so simply or forcibly in their parts as she does. It would seem that we have lost in her one of our greatest playwrights. The unfolding of character in dialogue has not been better done by any of our dramatists, and has certainly not been approached by any other novelist. No novels make so immediate an appeal when declaimed as hers do. Even youthful audiences who are popularly supposed to be incapable of appreciating the subtlety of her wit are quickly entranced.—S. Fishes Are Good Smellers.
Fishes possess a keen faculty of smelling. Examination of the nostrils of a fish reveals the fact that they are not connected with the air tube system, as in most animals, but lead into blind pockets lined with delicate membranes well supplied with nerves. In fishes, water is not drawn through the nostrils but merely into the small pockets, and these may be emptied and refilled. The quantity of water brought into contact with the nerves of smell must be comparatively small. In some few fishes, as in the globe fishes and puffers, for example, there is no nasal pocket, the nerves being directed into external projections.

AN AMAZING AFRICAN RACE
Tribe of "Fish Men" Inhabits Desert Wastes Bordering Lake Rudolf, in Kenya Colony.

The El Molo, a tribe of "fish-men" who inhabit the desert wastes bordering Lake Rudolf, in Kenya Colony, Africa, are undoubtedly the most amazing race of human beings. This tribe represents the only known specimens of semi-amphibious people, and it is a curious fact that any tribesman dies if he is kept from water for about three hours. As a rule they drink every hour during the day, for even an hour and a half without water causes cracking and bleeding of the lips.
The El Molo tribesmen spend their days swimming in the waters of Lake Rudolf, and fishing from frail rafts constructed of palm branches. Fish is almost their only diet, and they have no opportunity of varying their menu unless they are fortunate enough to spear a hippopotamus.
The water of Lake Rudolf is undrinkable to any one but the El Molo, for it contains a large quantity of soda and has an objectionable taste. The proportion of soda in the lake increases yearly, and it is believed to be this fact that has caused the "fish-men" to become a deformed race.

How Lifeboat Was Invented.
One day a man named Wouldhave was out walking when he was asked by an old woman to help her lift a can of water which she had filled by means of a broken wooden bowl.
The bowl was floating on the surface of the water, and as he talked to the woman, Wouldhave turned it over with his finger. It immediately righted itself. Amused by its antics he repeated the performance; then it struck him that he had made a wonderful discovery. The result of his chance meeting was the self-righting lifeboat, which was designed by him on the lines of the broken bowl.
What he had discovered was that anything made of floating material and shaped like one-half of a basin could float only with its convex surface downwards. A boat made on these lines cannot remain upside down for more than an instant when it is turned over by a heavy sea.

Salvadoran Celebrations.
The people of Salvador celebrate March 15 as a holiday in honor of General Morazan, who was elected president in 1830 of the Central American federation. In 1832 he suppressed an insurrection against the federal government in Salvador, in 1838 a revolution in Guatemala and in 1842 in Costa Rica. The people of Salvador also celebrate March 1 as a holiday.

Peanut Oil.
Peanut oil is one of the prime necessities of the Chinese in South China, and means as much to them as olive oil to the Spaniard and as lard to the American. It is the cooking oil and foodstuff of the race. Consul LeRoy Webber reports from Hongkong that both imports and exports of the oil at Hongkong are steadily increasing. During the first quarter of 1923 imports reached the high total of $738,796, and exports $571,320. Large stocks of peanut oil are always maintained in Hongkong. Most of the local oil is crushed from nuts grown in the colony, in South China and in North China. Exports are shipped chiefly to nearby markets in South China, the Straits Settlement, the United States, Indo-China, Siam, the Philippines and Canada.

One Man Shakespeares.
A professional writer gets many of his ideas at home. He may pick up a vigorous thought while fixing the furnace. He may frame a timely phrase at the supper table or even at cards.
For instance, Mr. and Mrs. Shakespeare were opponents at bridge.
The bard of Avon has just bid four spades.
"I double," announced Mrs. Shakespeare.
"Double, double, toil and trouble," sighed gentle Will, as he laboriously proceeded to lose two tricks.

Odd Pronunciation.
Says an exchange: "Ngon, a West African fruit, may be imported into this country. It is pronounced palatable."

Jap Invents Novel Sprinkler.
A Japanese is the inventor of a new sprinkler that distributes water as to form advertisements on pavements.

Hotel Stenographer
BY ROE FULKERSON

"They never get too old for romance," smiled the House Detective.
"No," agreed the Hotel Stenographer, following the direction of his index finger to a man and woman, about 35, in deep and earnest conversation on a sofa in Peacock alley.
"But she will have less trouble when married than a younger woman would have with a young husband."
"A young woman who marries thinks her husband is full of romance. After she marries she is hurt to find that in spite of the romance there is plenty of time for steak and potatoes."
"She gets the idea that all he needs for dinner is a cozy corner and copy of Mrs. Browning's poems, but she finds that before she can cozy corner or read poetry to him she has to lay a foundation of ham and cabbage."
"She believes all the things he said about wanting to be with her on a tropical island, where they wear few clothes and sing the hours away to a uke, but before the ceremony is three hours old, she finds that even on a desert island she will have to stuff the brute with fish chowder before he will even listen to the notes of the ukelele."
"The way to a woman's heart may be thru her ear, Kelly, but, take it from me, if you want to reach a man's heart without a single detour you must go in a direct line down his throat. His heart may beat for you alone but if you do not properly fill his stomach you will find that same heart beating loud and long for some other Jane, who can handle a pot roast and manure a chicken for frying."
"That woman is old enough to know that if you do not feed them they will run out on you and if you overfeed them, they go to sleep, so a married woman's best friend is a good cook!"

BLOOD POISON
CAUSED DEATH

Asa Bryon Glick, Prominent Farm-
er, Passed Away at His Home.

Burned Little Finger and Whole System
Was Affected—Past Master of
Grange, Clerk of Washington Town-
ship and Member of Philos Lodge.

Asa B. Glick died at his home in Washington township at 4:30 o'clock
this morning.

About a week ago, while Mr. Glick
was assisting a neighbor, Edward Leist, with his butchering, he burned
the finger of his left hand, when the
member came in contact with the bale
of the kettle of hot water. The wound
at first did not give him much trouble
but inside of twenty-four hours it became very painful and he sought medical aid. The burned portion of his finger was directly over a previous
wound to the same finger sustained
some years ago and it is thought that
this old wound carried some hidden
poison and was released when his finger was burned. Mr. Glick suffered untold agony, but bore up under the ordeal. He lapsed into unconsciousness Thursday evening and failed
to rally.

Asa Bryon Glick was born in Washington township May 23, 1878, and
was the son of Caleb and Anna Fisher
Glick. He married Miss Viola Leist in Stoutsville September 8, 1904. His wife and two daughters survive. The children are Miss Alma Ruth Glick, a
student at the Ohio State university
and Dorothy M. Glick, at home.

Of his immediate family there are
living his father, Caleb Glick and one
sister, Eda, wife of George Bolender,
of Jackson township.

Asa Glick was a most likable man
and had a host of friends. He was one of the foremost farmers of this community. He was a past master of the Washington grange and was clerk
of the Washington township board of education and a member of Philos
lodge, Knights of Pythias, of this city.

HONOR ROLL

Low Percentage of Eggs is Result of Poor Management.

The honor roll for Ohio poultrymen
has been increased by 28 names in the
year just past.

Of more than 1200 poultrymen who
kept records on their flocks from November 1, 1922 to November 1, 1923 in cooperation with the Ohio State university, 28 had flocks that produced
better than 160 eggs a hen for the year. A fair average in the opinion of poultry specialists, is 120 eggs a year
per hen.

Two flocks averaged better than 200 eggs per hen, the others scaling down gradually to 160.6. In size these 28 flocks which are owned by farmers
in 21 Ohio counties, averaged about
200 birds each, with one or two above
400 and three below 100 individuals.

Ohio's record, says G. S. Vickers,
poultry extension specialist at the
university, compares favorably with
that of any other state. "The record
shows that it is possible with good
chickens and good management," he
continues, "to make high production
in Ohio. The main reason our state
average is so low is more because of the poultrymen than the poultry. Better management is our chief need.

"Some of the records for the year
run down as low as 40 eggs a hen. I am not positive, but I believe, with
good management, I could make buzzards average that high.

"Some poultrymen, according to the records, made less than 10 cents an hour over and above all expenses for
their labor. They might just as well have gone rabbit hunting. Men with such low financial returns had flocks
that produced pitifully few eggs per
hen."

AUTO TAGS.

Automobile owners will be permitted to drive their cars with the 1923
licenses until February first according
to a telegram from Secretary of State
Thad H. Brown to Mayor George M.
Fitzpatrick.

The telegram is as follows: "Request that you permit the use of Ohio
Twenty-three license plates until January thirty-first."

In Queensland March 1 is kept as a holiday sacred to St. David, the patron
saint of Wales, who resided in Mene-

place of pilgrimage. William the Con-

Menevia were commonly regarded as
the equivalent of one pilgrimage to Rome.

AMUSEMENTS
Walter Hiers' new Paramount picture, "Sixty Cents an Hour," was shown with gratifying results at the Met theater last evening. Jacqueline Logan, featured as leading woman, shared honors with the star.
On a salary of $7.50 a week, Jimmy Kirk (Walter Hiers) is a firm believer in M. C. and every day in every way he is getting richer and richer, but upon the reduction of his salary to six dollars he is at his wits' end. But a man with ambition is not to be downed. So Jimmy purchases a small strip of land next to the Zavina National bank. It is here that he expects to establish himself in business, but when he finds that the bank extends an illegal foot over his property, every thing takes a turn for the better. "Move it off or buy me out," commands Jimmy of the bank president, who does buy him out and at Kirk's price.

It is now that Jimmy has his inning, for is he not in the position to ask Mamie Smith (Jacqueline Logan), daughter of the bank president to marry him? His proposal and acceptance come after many amusing incidents and genuine thrills have taken place. The plot is interesting, the action fast moving and the acting of the star and Miss Logan is wholly satisfying. Others in a thoroly capable supporting cast are Ricardo Cortez, Chas. Ogle, Lucile Ward, Robert Dudley, Guy Oliver, Clarence Burton and Cullen Tate.

A Good Living and Something Besides

With cows and a De Laval Separator, you are sure of a good living and often something besides. With cream or butter to sell, bringing in a steady cash income; with milk, cream and butter for your table; and with skim-milk to raise calves, pigs and chickens, you are absolutely safe.
And the De Laval Separator has done more than any other factor to make this so. It is the original separator, skims cleaner under all conditions, wears longer, and is easier to operate and clean than any other. We shall be glad to prove this to you. Give us an opportunity.

Easy to Thread.

A Redditch needle maker has invented a new kind of needle which
makes "threading" much more easy
than with the orthodox type. His needle, instead of having a complete loop
for its eye, has a tiny gap in the loop,
into which the thread can be slipped
instantly without the wearisome dodg-
ing that the present type requires.

TWO THEORIES PUT FORTH

Scientists Have Disagreed as to the Composition of the Chemical
Elements.

It is an old question, "Are the
seventy-odd chemical elements really
elementary, or are they compounded
of something still more elementary?"
In the light of the discoveries of the
last few years about radium one authority recurs to a theory, advocated
by him many years ago, that as the
planets are evolved out of the original
nebula which gave birth to the solar
system the chemical elements themselves were also evolved out of something far less complex than themselves. The fact that existing nebu-
lae are very simple in composition,
while stars in various stages of development exhibit more and more complexity until in solidified bodies, like
the earth, a great number of chemical
elements with a myriad of compounds
are found, is regarded as strongly supporting this theory. The phenomenon
of radium leads to the additional suggestion that as in the development of
the heavenly bodies we seem to see
the growth of the elements, so in
radioactivity we witness their decay.—
Exchange.

Washington a Fast Wooser.

Washington was in his twenty-fifth
year when, taking dinner at a friend's
house, he met young, pretty and widowed Martha Custis. He could fix
none of his attention on eating because
he had concentrated it all on the allur-
ing widow, whose invitation to tea for
that evening he fervently accepted,
says the Detroit News.

He left her home late that night only
to reappear there early the next morning. Before noon they were engaged,
and in a few days the "knot was tied,"
Martha in silk and satin, laces and
brocade, with pearls around her throat
and in her ears—and George in blue
and silver trimmed with scarlet, and
with gold buckles at his knees and on
his shoes.

Immediately following the ceremony
they left for Mount Vernon, the bride
in a "coach and six," and the bridegroom on horseback, riding proudly
alongside.

Beauty Contest.

There was a commotion on the
strand, but the guests on the hotel
veranda were unable to determine what
it was all about. Bathing girls were apparently forming in line and camera
men seemed to be active. Some languid interest was taken, so when Hoffy
came straggling up, he was hailed by his friend Cutbush.

"Did you see the excitement?"

"Yes," said Hoffy.

"What's up now?" inquired the other.

"Beauty contest on the beach."

"Hub?"

"Between the wets and the dries."

GOLD IS USED ON POTTERY

Its Value for Gilding Lies in Its Resistance to Oxidization—Not Expensive.

Gold is used on pottery either for
gilding or as a coloring agent in glazes.
Its value lies in its resistance to oxidi-
zation and the fineness of the layer
that can be produced, for which reason
it is not an expensive stain. The aid
of a flux is employed in application
and mercurous oxide is found to reduce
the amount of gold required. The following mixture is used:

Fifteen parts of black mercurous oxide, 2.5 parts of basic bismuth nitrate and 0.3 parts of melted borax. The addition of three parts of silver carbonate to this composition produces a greenish tint. After firing in the muffler the gold has a matt surface and
must be polished with bloodstone or agate. A cheaper process, which does not require polishing after the burn, is
the use of glanzold or Meissen gold,
a preparation of gold solution with an
organic medium such as turpentine,
lavender oil or a balsam or resin. As
a coloring agent in glazes, gold produces shades from violet to purple and
red, of which the best known is purple
of Cassius, a lake of precipitated gold
with metallic hydroxide, preferably
that of tin, which was formerly regarded as a definite compound. The presence of ammonia or alum in the
stannous chloride solution produces
shades from dark to rose purple and
the tint may be further modified by
the substitution of antimony or magnesia for tin. Choice of flux materially influences the color.—Washington Star.

SCARLET DEEP-SEA SHRIMPS

Specimens Fished Up in the Mediterranean at a Depth of More Than a Mile.

A shrimp, a magnificent creature a
foot long, with feelers a yard in
length, was among the specimens fished
up in the Mediterranean at a depth of
more than a mile, in researches conducted by the late prince of Monaco.
The prince spent much of his spare
time dredging in deep waters for
strange creatures which live in the in-
black, icy-cold abysses of the sea.

The Mediterranean creature is of a
gorgeous red color, and has feathered
feet. It is pleasant to eat, and large enough that one shrimp is sufficient
for a good meal for a hungry man.
But the oddest part about it is the
color. Since in the depths at which it
lives the darkness is equal to that of
the deepest mine, it is difficult to imagine why it should possess this
scarlet hue.

Nine men were held in the Alexandria, Ky., jail as a sequel to a probi-tion raid on two farm houses near
that town, which resulted in the killing of one man, Lawrence Osage, 37,
of Newport, Ky.

HARTMAN THEATER

The movement of one of the largest
theatrical troupes from New York has
been undertaken by the Shuberts,
who will present the latest version of
"The Passing Show" the new 1923 edition, at the Hartman theater, Columbus, the week commencing Monday,
January 14. It moved out of the Winter Garden in its entirety and included without a doubt, the heaviest production material ever transported with any theatrical organization. Since
the organization of "The Passing Show" eleven years ago, Columbus
has seen the various revues emanating
from the famous Winter Garden.
Famed for its spectacular features
and noted for its excellent combination of artists, the Winter Garden
company has this year excelled all
previous records. The costuming,
scenic effects and elaborate mechanical devices which contribute to this
stupendous musical revel, mark the
highest attainment in the Winter Garden history. There are over 100 girls
grouped in 24 musical diversions all of
them arrayed in the very latest Winter Garden fashions. The Winter Garden has never been noted for its display of street costumes, but it has become nationally known for its display
of state costumes. It has been said
that there is more originality in the new Winter Garden designs than has ever before been seen. Two features
which caused nothing short a sensation during the run of "The Passing
Show" in New York are the mechanical combinations which go to make up
the "Living Curtain" and the "Living Chandelier." In addition to these novelties the production takes in, in all, 28 scenes. The splendid company
which has carried "The Passing Show" thru its several months in New York, includes Ted Lewis, popularly
referred to as the "High Hatted Trage-
dian of Song" with his Musical Clowns
George Hassell, George Jessel, Frank
Gaby, Louise Dose, Vera Ross, Perry
Askam, Hattie Darling and many others. Melodious music has been provided by Sigmund Romberg and Jean Schwartz, both noted for their former contributions. Mail orders
now. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

TANGLED ROW

By AGNES G. BROGAN

BASIL BROOKS looked from the window of his country boarding house, on the same wearisome scene; there were others who thought this beautiful countryside far from wearisome. It may have been that the sick man's state of mind was responsible for his discontent. The doctor had assured him that strained nerves would mend in the restful atmosphere.

"No pretentious retreat of neurotics," his doctor advised, "but just simple, wholesome country." And that was what the man of great business concern found in Sweet Briar. So far, it bored him inexpressibly. From his white-curtained high window, he saw always, a church opposite. When the light at sundown shone through the stained glass, he could read there distinctly the words, "Betsy Jane Morrow."

Basil turned from the cottage window to walk down the narrow stair of the country house, and out into the night. He went aimlessly down a crooked lane. Behind old rambling houses lay a lovely stream, silver in the moonlight. In dooryards men sat companionably with their pipes. In flower-bordered gardens children played. Basil felt keenly his solitary condition. Not a friendly soul with whom to exchange a good evening. And, he reflected as he walked along, even in great New York his friends numbered few. Could he call those with whom he associated as the demand of business left him scant leisure—friends indeed? Or were they merely congenial acquaintances? And the young woman, whom Basil had known—well, he was resigned to his disappointment there; again, perhaps the result of an over-wearied mind. But in the recesses of that mind he carried an ideal—a fair and gentle young woman, comforting. Before him mentally flashed a well-known name, "Betsy Jane Morrow." Basil smiled, and a friendly stroller took the smile for greeting.

"How do, stranger," remarked the old man; "nice night for a walk." Presently they came to a refreshing picture—a small white house, shining in its neatness, an inviting garden, ruffled white curtains at the windows—inside the glow of shaded lights. "Now, this little place," went on the old man, "was the only decently neat house in Tangled Row. Miss Betsy

Jane Morrow—Basil stared—"used to live here. An' she kept it up 'til she died an' old woman. Then she willed it to a granddaughter, on condition that she come an' live in it. The granddaughter was an orphan, working in a city office. Only been working since her father died, an' not bein' used to it, was peeked like. But she come out here, an' land! she's changed the whole Row. Seems you can most see the places improve beginnin' near her. Shouldn't wonder after she's here a spell, if the Row won't be a place to be proud of."

Basil had not hoped to be interested, but he was. It may have been a personal interest in the late "Betsy Jane Morrow." "Why didn't the lady improve the place in her lifetime?" he asked.

"You see," he said, "Betsy Jane was a born fault-finder. Complained enough about her neighbors' slackness, that's sure. But that didn't seem to stir 'em up any, so she bore with 'em—none too patient. When this young woman comes to live in the empty house, my son's wife says to me—we live in the Row—I'll have more worryments to do this and that, to my house an' garden, I suppose, now that a relative of old Mrs. Morrow is going to be neighbor. But Betsy Jane's granddaughter came a smilin' to admire the plucky old flowers in our yard, and told us how glad she was to have near neighbors, an' how kind everyone was makin' her welcome. An' the folks got to tellin' one another all the pleasant things she had said about 'em, like they'd told all the complainin' things old Betsy Jane had said. And everyone grew sort of friendly, 'an when the women got through helpin' the new young woman with her garden, an' fixin' up her house, why, naturally, they took to fixin' up their own—leastways those on either side."

Basil stopped deliberately, to look through ruffled curtains, to where in the light of a shaded lamp could be seen the face of a young woman. The face in the lamplight did not take from the old man's tribute.

When the bells of the village church called next morning, across the meadows, the man of tired nerves found himself answering the call. There in the light of the colored glass window sat the girl of Tangled Row, a fair and gentle young woman with lips curved as though in a smile of habitual content. Basil's ideal surely personified. A woman who could "make her own happy condition, in place of seeking."

Basil, moving down the aisle after service, absently repeated the name of the memorial window—"Betsy Jane

Morrow."

The young woman of Tangled Row turned to him. "You spoke to me?" she questioned.

"The name on the window," Basil apologized.

"Also, my own," said the girl.

"You look like a new and happy man," his associates told Basil upon his return.

"I am married to 'Betsy Jane Morrow,'" he explained.

"From Dan to Bee-sheba."

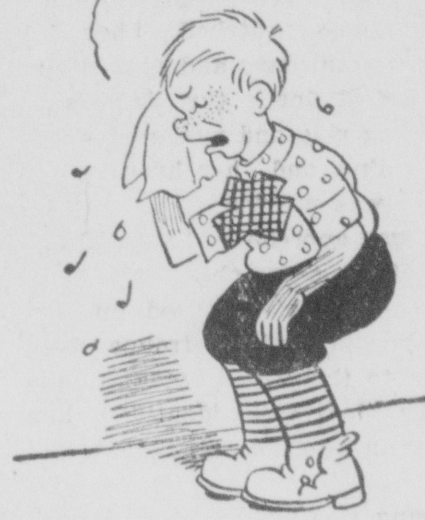

The familiar expression "From Dan to Beersheba" originally was used to denote the entire extent of the holy land, and afterward applied to any region when referring to its whole length, says the Detroit News. Dan was the most northern city in the "land of promise" and Beersheba the most southern one; hence the saying "From Dan to Beersheba came to mean the entire extent of the country."

The Grande Chartreuse.

The Grande Chartreuse was the original monastery of the Carthusians, founded in 1804. It is situated among the mountains in the French department of Isere, about fourteen miles northeast of Grenoble, and is famous for an aromatic cordial made by the monks, the secret of which they have long possessed. The monastery was despoiled during the French revolution, and the inmates exiled from 1796 to 1816. They returned after the restoration of Louis XVIII (1814), but never recovered their former wealth and influence.

Sir Roger de Coverley.

The name is that of a member of an imaginary club, under whose auspices the Spectator was supposed to be edited. Sir Roger is the type of an English gentleman of the time of Queen Anne (1702-1714), and figures in thirty papers of the Spectator. He is noted for his modesty, generosity and hospitality. The name Sir Roger de Coverley was also given to a dance, similar to the Virginia reel, and supposed to have been the original of it. The title is derived from the English squire described in the Spectator.

Friction Matches.

Friction matches first came into use in 1833, and as late as 1850 were regarded as too dangerous to be transported by rail. The first sulphur matches put on the market came in square blocks of wood split well down, from which individual matches might be broken. When ignited, a most offensive sulphur odor arose. The first individual matches, put up in small boxes, were imported from Sweden in the early eighties, and were a great improvement over the old sulphur match.

Age-Old Fashions in Hairdressing.

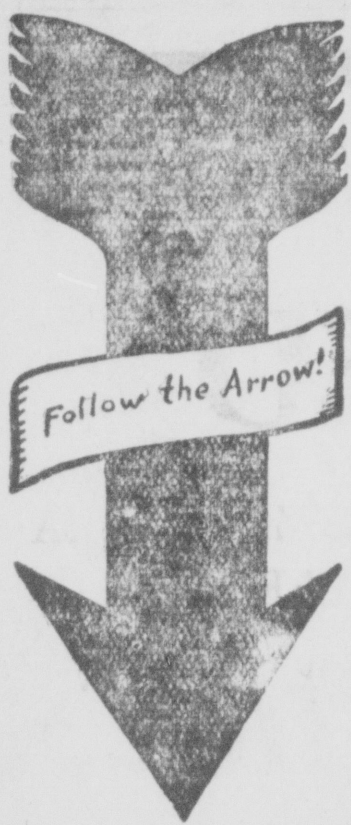

Hair naturally grows outwards in all directions, and the first man who found it falling in front of his eyes and brushed it aside must have been the first man to "part" his hair!

Coming to ages, of which we have some definite knowledge, we find hairdressing in different fashions as far back as there are writings or monuments to record anything at all. So plaiting, which implies parting, is mentioned in the Bible. The Babylonians and Egyptians cultivated rows of elaborate curls, while the Greeks and Romans were short clipped.

Our modern parting dates back about 120 years. Before that gentlemen wore wigs over their own close-cropped polls. Wigs went out and since the close crop too nearly resembled the convict, hair was allowed to grow and parted as it is at present.

JURY FOUND REAM GUILTY

Assaulted Mrs. Josephine Richardson With Intent to Kill.

Woman Was on Way to Attend Funeral of Her Mother and Accepted Ride With Stranger Who Beat Her Over the Head With a Monkey Wrench.

The Franklin county jury in the case of Guy Ream, charged with assault with intent to kill Mrs. Josephine Richardson, of Cleveland, June 5, 1923, returned a verdict of guilty on the sixth ballot Thursday evening.

Mrs. Richardson, who is a sister of E. C. Bowman, of this city, came to Columbus at 1:40 a. m., June 5, to attend the funeral of her mother. Upon her arrival at the Union station, Columbus, she was unable to make connections with a street car and accepted a ride with a strange man who said he was going north. She was taken to the River road and brutally assaulted.

Stopping his automobile, presumably to make some repair, the man attacked her with a monkey wrench and beat her over the head. She was left unconscious by the roadside. Her skull was fractured and she suffered loss of senses of taste and smell.

A colored family of that neighborhood were awakened by a noise on their porch and they found her groping blindly for the door. She was taken to White Cross hospital where a woman detective watched at her bedside for several days and nights. She was identified finally thru initials on her wedding ring and muttered words from her lips, and her husband in Cleveland was notified.

Ream was apprehended thru identification of his automobile, said to be the same one which picked up Mrs. Richardson. She and a patrolman both drove up to the Union station and Mrs. Richardson also identified him while she was on the witness stand.

The biggest sensation in the trial was sprung when Miss Irene Immel, formerly of this city, testified that Ream had offered $5000 if she would testify she had been in his company the night of the attack. Ream's defense was an alibi, which failed miserably to hold up under cross-examination.

Ream took the stand in the face of Miss Immel's testimony and declared she was the woman who had accompanied him the night of June 4. He met her earlier in the evening, he said and they rode to the Storage dam, remaining there until after midnight.

TAX BILL GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY

Republican Caucus Defers Consideration of Bonus.

LONGWORTH MOTION PREVAILS

Soldier Bonus Bill to Be Taken Up by the Ways and Means Committee While the Tax Measure Is Under Consideration in the House—Soldier Bloc to Renew Fight on the Floor of the House.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Consideration of the soldier bonus bill by the house ways and means committee was ordered by the Republican conference definitely deferred until after the committee shall have disposed of the Mellon tax reduction legislation.

In adopting this schedule the conference ordered the ways and means committee to report out the tax measure for consideration and action in the house not later than Feb. 11.

The bonus bill will be taken up by the ways and means committee while the tax legislation is under consideration in the house. As extended hearings are not expected, the bonus bill should be ready for the house immediately upon conclusion of the tax measure. The conference, however, refused by a vote of 109 to 86 to require the ways and means committee to favorably report a bonus by Feb. 25.

Representative Fish of New York made an effort to put the conference on record to the effect that a "reasonable tax reduction bill and an adjusted compensation bill should be adopted at this session of congress." He was defeated, the vote being 97 to 94.

Republican Leader Longworth after the conference said that his proposition was carried by virtually a unanimous vote, only one or two nays being heard. The text of his motion was: "Resolved, that it is the sense of the Republican conference that the ways and means committee proceed to the consideration of the bill to reduce taxation to the exclusion of all other legislative propositions, and shall report the same to the house on or before Feb. 11, 1924, and thereafter shall proceed to the consideration of legislation granting adjusted compensation to the veterans of the world war."

It was emphasized by the party leaders that the Longworth motion, which prevailed, carried no commitment to favorable action on the bonus, although it is conceded by everybody that the committee will favor the bill, once it is taken up for action.

The soldier bloc leaders announced after the conference adjourned that they would renew their fight under the liberalized rule to be adopted next week. A motion to discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of the bonus bill will force a test of strength on the floor, where a record vote will be had, and with the Democrats taking part in the decision. Should the proposed motion to discharge prevail, the bonus bill immediately would come up for action in the house.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Leaders of the administration forces in the senate have become apprehensive of what further punishments may be in store for them at the hands of the insurgents and Democrats. A move to deprive Senator Cummins of the office of president pro tem may be next on the program, for Democratic leaders announced they will seek to determine the right of Cummins to hold this office by forcing it to a roll call before many days have passed.

The success of the coalitionists Wednesday was the first concrete demonstration of the power they hold at their command to wield the bludgeon over any and all administration measures and run the business of the senate just about as they please. It demonstrated that the administration forces are utterly powerless to dictate the form of legislation or to defeat compromise.

INQUIRY TO BE HELD

Washington, Jan. 11.—Quick action in the senate answered the delay of the senate's expense committee in reporting out the resolution to investigate the government's secret seal skin contract with the fur corporation.

Senator Wheeler of Montana, in another resolution, demanded the discharge of the committee from further consideration of the matter. While this was before the senate the chairman of the expense committee, Senator Keyes of New Hampshire, is understood to have assured Mr. Wheeler that the committee will hold a preliminary inquiry to shaping its report. Senator Wheeler is said to have consented to a compromise and will state briefly why the investigation should not be further delayed.

FIVE SEPARATIST LEADERS SLAIN

French Inaugurate Stern Reprisals Against Germans.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—French authorities and separatists in the Palatinate have inaugurated drastic reprisals against the Germans for the assassination of five separatist leaders and the wounding of several others at Speyer.

The victims were shot while eating their evening meal in a restaurant. They included "President of the Palatinate Republic" Heinz.

Serious street clashes between separatists and citizens preceded the assassinations and flared up anew when the separatists, hearing the news of the deaths of their leaders, proceeded ruthlessly to clear the streets with rifles and bayonets. Five more were killed and several wounded in these street battles.

In retaliation for the assassinations seven of the most prominent citizens of Speyer have been arrested as hostages. Most of the houses and many automobiles of travelers have been searched while the strictest passport control has been introduced. The situation is so grave that the German cabinet set aside other questions to study reports from the scene.

The assassinations were merely the dramatic climax of the bitter struggle which has been going on for months between the French invaders and the German population over the control of the Palatinate. To France the Palatinate has long been the "gate to Germany," the pivotal point at which the lever for Germany's dismemberment should be applied. When the separatist movement fizzled in the north the French concentrated their full fury on the Palatinate, which had ravaged French armies several times in the past.

Lutherans Plan Merger.

Toledo, Jan. 11.—Complete merger of the Ohio and Iowa synods of the United Lutheran Church of America, representing more than 1,700 churches with an aggregate membership of nearly 400,000, was forecast here by a special committee of official representatives of the two large independent Lutheran bodies.

WOULD AMEND CUMMINS ACT

La Follette Begins Attack on Transportation Laws.

SWEEPING CHANGES PROPOSED

One Bill Would Amend Method of Fixing Rates by Providing That All Rates For Transportation Shall Be Fixed Solely on Basis of Cost of Service—Another Calls For Reports on Original Construction Cost.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Senator La Follette fired the opening gun in his long threatened war upon the transportation laws.

He introduced two proposed amendments to the Esch-Cummins act and the railroad valuation act. Both measures were referred to the interstate commerce committee, of which Senator Smith (Dem., S. C.) was elected chairman by the senate.

The first amendment proposes a sweeping change in the method of fixing rates by providing that all rates for transportation shall be fixed solely upon the basis of the cost of service. The amendment would abolish the existing provisions in the Esch-Cummins law, which guarantees to the railroads a certain fixed return upon their investment.

By cost of service, Senator La Follette means operating expense, plus actual capital cost, which includes interest on bonds and a fair dividend for stock which represents money invested. It rejects the theory that "public utilities are entitled to earn profits on inflated and fictitious values."

The other amendment offered by the senator directs the interstate commerce commission to file at once all reports to date on the original cost of railroad construction. It also provides that where reliable records have not been preserved by the railroads, original cost shall be estimated from the data available. This information is required, the senator pointed out, in order to make it possible to ascertain the capital cost of transportation service as a preliminary to proper adjustment of the rates.

Senator La Follette issued a statement explaining his proposed amendments in which he said: "These amendments, if enacted, will fix as the rate base the amount of money prudently invested in the properties by the owners and will outlaw for rate-making purposes the inflated and fraudulent claims of alleged values now put forward by the railroads. This means a difference of several hundred million dollars a year in the amount of the freight charges that must be paid by the American people and four or five times that much in their cost of living."

SINKS WITH ALL HANDS

British Submarine Rammmed During Maneuvers by Battleship.

London, Jan. 11.—Quite a chapter of accidents marked the departure of the British Atlantic fleet from Portland for the spring cruise. Two of the accidents were really serious. The first was the collision of two submarines, one receiving a smashed bow. This was followed by a collision between the battleship Resolution and the submarine L-24 in which the latter sunk with all on board.

While the L-24 usually carries a crew of 38 men, it was stated that there were additional men aboard for training and there is as yet no way of knowing how many men went down. Frantic efforts to raise the sunken ship were begun. It was not even known whether her watches were closed when the accident occurred. Efforts to communicate with the crew by undersea telephone and by wireless were unavailing.

RUHR ACCORD SOUGHT

Present Situation Means Ruin For All, Says Stinnes.

Paris, Jan. 11.—"The 15th of April is the extreme limit for a solid, reasonable Ruhr accord to be agreed to by France, or it is ruin for all of Europe," declares Hugo Stinnes, Germany's leading industrialist. "We have two options," he continued. "The first is to liquidate the present situation by a new war and new ruins. The second is for France and Germany to work hand in hand for peace through definite and equitable accords. We accepted the interim accord temporarily, but now our industries are menaced with the necessity of closing down because our money and credit burden is too heavy. We can not last longer than the 15th of April."

Cleveland, Jan. 11.—James P. Mangin, state prohibition inspector, charged there was a "gigantic bootleg ring in the police department here," and that some policemen were operating a private business with money and liquor gleamed through the protection of saloons and bootleggers. The charges were made to United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein following the arrest by Mangin of Police Sergeant Anton Cerba for alleged violation of the liquor law.

Ohio Miners to Meet.

Columbus, Jan. 11.—Renewal of wage agreements with Ohio operators will be one of the principal questions to be considered by Ohio United Mine Workers at their state convention, which opens here Monday. The wage scale agreed upon at termination of the strike two years ago expires this spring. The question will be brought before the convention in report of the scale committee. About 200 delegates, representing 52,000 Ohio miners, will attend.

Witness Accuses Pal.

Caldwell, O., Jan. 11.—Testimony of a pal may send Elmer Farra, Byesville, to the electric chair for the murder of Charles W. Moore, Noble county sheriff. George Siebenschuh, friend and neighbor of Farra, and also indicted with him in the killing of Moore on Nov. 20, testified for the state that the fatal shots were fired by Farra. Moore was slain as he sought to arrest two alleged liquor runners here.

Trustees Walk Away.

Mansfield, O., Jan. 11.—Leo Schuster of Mansfield and Edward Lucas of Jefferson county, two trustees at the Ohio state reformatory, made their escape by walking away from the dairy barn. Schuster was sent up for burglary and Lucas for grand larceny. No trace has been found of the escaped prisoners as yet.

Store Held Up.

Claims Ballots Tamed With.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 11.—The Mahoning county grand jury has been asked to probe the councilman election here. Former Councilman W. I. Corrigan was returned a winner in the Second ward when the votes were counted election night. He had a lead of 32 over W. R. Lentz, Klan-endorsed candidate. Five Klan-endorsed councilmen ordered a recount of the vote which showed Lentz a leader by 27 votes. Attorney Oscar E. Diser, counsel for Corrigan, charges "that ballots had been tampered with after the board of elections was given custody of the ballot box."

Call for Vigorous Operation of Merchant Marine.

PALMER GIVEN FULL POWER

Members of Shipping Board Accept President's Requirement That the Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation Be Separated—Latter, With Palmer at Its Head, to Operate the Merchant Fleet.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Plans for the vigorous operation of the United States merchant marine under the direction of Rear Admiral Leigh Palmer, former naval officer, were unanimously approved by President Coolidge and members of the shipping board.

The approved proposals accept in principle the president's requirement that the shipping board and the emergency fleet corporation be separated, and that the corporation, with Admiral Palmer at its head, operate the merchant fleet. Under the law, the shipping board retains jurisdiction over certain general matters, such as ship sales, trade routes and the allocation of vessels.

Members of the board attending the conference, however, pledged their co-operation and support to Admiral Palmer in an energetic program for the operation of the merchant fleet in effective competition with foreign steamship interests. Certain changes in the shipping act were forecast in order to strengthen Admiral Palmer's hand as the directing head of the government's merchant marine.

President Coolidge himself, it is understood, made plain his determination to have the fleet operated energetically and efficiently in accordance with sound business principles. Under the proposals approved, new vigor will be instilled into the government's merchant marine. Admiral Palmer is to have full authority over the details of fleet operation, and behind him stands the president himself.

No effort will be spared to maintain the fleet on a basis of effective competition with steamship interests. Particular attention will be given to strengthening the tie between the American merchant marine on the one hand and American manufactures and shippers on the other.

TO MEET IN JUNE

Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons to Have Another Battle.

New York, Jan. 11.—Another battle between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons will take place in June. Promoter Tex Ricard stated that he has made an agreement with Gibbons, through his manager, Eddie Kane, and that he expects to get Dempsey in a day or two. "The fight will be held around June 1," the promoter said. "I am not ready now to name the place or date. I will also match Gibbons and Georges Carpentier or Gene Tunney for a bout in Madison Square Garden if it can be arranged." Ricard has come to the conclusion that there is sufficient interest to warrant the promotion of another outdoor meeting between "Man Killer Jack" and the hero of the 15-round stand against the champion at Shelby, Mont., last July.

Film Star Mentioned in Divorce Suit.

Los Angeles, Jan. 11.—The name of Jacqueline Logan, film star, became a rattling skeleton in the closet of George Melford, prominent movie director, when his wife's suit for divorce was tried. "Are you in love with Jacqueline Logan?" asked the court. "I know the young lady, but I am not in love with her. I simply don't love my wife and want to live my life," Melford replied. Judge Summerfield in granting the divorce scored Melford for "casting a fine woman aside after years of wifehood." Mrs. Melford was awarded $200 a week alimony and a property settlement.

To Receive Donations For Miners.

Cleveland, Jan. 11.—A receiving station has been established by Cleveland Federation of Women's club in Hotel Statler for receiving donations of clothing to be sent miners and their families near Athens.

Bribery Charged.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 11.—John N. Carrothers, special state prohibition agent, arrested by county authorities, confessed, according to his interrogators, that he had taken bribes from violators of the liquor law.

SLEW FATHER'S SLAYER

Girl of Fifteen to Go to Trial For Killing Congressman.

Mexico City, Jan. 11.—Maria del Pilar Moreno, child of 15, has for the moment about as much interest for Mexico City as the revolution. Maria, who might have stepped out of a Murrillo painting, will be placed on trial Monday for the murder of Congressman Alberto Tejeda Lorca. He was her father's slayer. She shot him dead when the police, deferring to congressional immunity, failed to arrest him. The foremost criminal lawyers of Mexico have volunteered to defend Maria. Adolfo Gaona, most famous living bull fighter, will be in the jury box. When Maria was arrested after shooting Tejeda Lorca eight months ago, she said that she loved her father, that justice had failed, and so vengeance had fallen to the daughter. Maria's father was a well known publicist. He and the congressman quarreled on the steps of one of the government buildings and the shooting followed. It is generally predicted that the child will be acquitted.

Progressive Road Building.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Road building is becoming one of the principal industries in the United States, according to Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads at Washington. Within the past year, MacDonald said, approximately 40,000 miles of surface were completed in the country, a net gain of 30,000 miles over 1922. "At the beginning of 1923 there was about 400,000 miles of improved roads in existence in the United States and at the present rate of progress this mileage will be doubled in 10 years," MacDonald declared.

Woman For Delegate-at-Large.

Zanesville, O., Jan. 11.—Democrats of the Fifteenth congressional district are fighting to have Mrs. Eleanor Bailey Johnson of this city, national congressional committee woman for Ohio, honored by being made one of the state's delegates-at-large to the next Democratic national convention.

Wanted on Murder Charge.

Columbus, Jan. 11.—Governor Donahy issued extradition papers for Myrtle Atkinson, under arrest at Philadelphia and wanted in Canton on a first degree murder charge. She is charged with the killing of Policeman William Quinn at Canton Sept. 16, 1920.

Her Collection of Husbands.

A woman who said she had had six husbands asked a London magistrate to grant her a separation. It is supposed that she is breaking up her collection.—Punch, London.

Youthful Solomon.

Hearing his father grumbling about the high price of coal, a small boy remarked quite solemnly: "I wouldn't buy any more of it if I were you, daddy—we only burn it."

Not Nowadays.

Ladies of quality originally wore masks either to protect their complexions or out of modesty to prevent them from being recognized while out of doors.

From Wool to Suit in a Day.

In numerous industries there have been conspicuous examples of what can be accomplished in the way of speed when human energy as well as mechanical appliances are put to the test against time. For example, an English baronet once wagered that he would dine at seven o'clock in a suit of clothes made from wool which had been growing on the sheep's back the same day. Operations began at five o'clock in the morning with the washing of sufficient sheep to provide the wool. From a neighboring factory the wool was returned as cloth late in the afternoon, but early enough to permit a tailor and his assistants completing the suit by seven o'clock. In plenty of time for the baronet to don it preparatory to sitting down to his evening meal.

Faithful Dog.

The man was trying to sell his dog. "You see," he said, "I bought him and trained him myself. I got him so that he'd bark if a person stepped inside the gate, and I thought I was safe from burglars. Then my wife wanted me to train him to carry bundles, and I did."

"If I put a package in his mouth he would keep it there until some one took it away. Well, one night I woke up and heard movements in the next room. I got up and grabbed my revolver. Two men were there—and the dog."

"Didn't he bark?" interrupted the man. "Never a bark; he was too busy." "Busy? What doing?" "Carrying a lantern for the burglars."

Cats and Weather.

Are cats weather prophets? Do their highly-strung nervous systems respond to changes in the atmosphere? It is an old belief that good weather may be expected when the cat washes herself, but had when she licks her coat against the grain, or washes herself over the ears, or sits with her tail to the fire. In superstitious days pussie's response to a coming change in the weather was thought to mean that she had some control over it. A confusion of cause with effect. So sailors were afraid to provoke a cat; in fact they did not like a cat on board ship at all. A frisky cat made them quote the saying: "A cat has a gale of wind in her tail." The way to raise a gale was to throw a cat overboard. Ruffles on a calm surface from a rising wind are still called "cats' paws." In some parts of England a popular name for the stormy northwest wind is the "cat's nose."

He flies from twig to twig, a flash of flaming color among the leaves. All eyes rest on him. He is a scarlet tanager.

His plumage is more glaring than the feathers of a cardinal. Nature, ever lavish in color, has piled on him her most glaring combination. Red and black make the most conspicuous color pattern on earth. This motif appears over and over in the realm of nature. Sir Tanager wears them proudly. He wants to be seen.

His mate is not gaudy. She is dressed in a greenish drab, so like the moss on tree trunks that our eyes can hardly discern her.

Sir Tanager wore this plumage, too, in his youth. In those days of hard flying and long travels he did not need to be conspicuous. He would have made too easy an eyeful for hawks.

But it is the mating season. He wants to be seen. What male is there who does not want to appear his best in the eyes of the other sex?

Bee keepers hate tanagers. They claim that these birds sometimes eat their bees. Perhaps this is true. Tanagers catch much of their food on the wing, and who could expect a bird to know the difference between a tame bee and a wild bug?

No more beautiful sight could be imagined than a tanager as he swoops gracefully out from his twig, to snap up an insect quite invisible to human eyes. His red feathers flash, his glossy wings gleam with shining black; you wonder what further word could be added about feathered beauty.—Chicago Tribune.

Jane Austen's Dialogue.

The first thing that strikes anyone who has tried to read Jane Austen's novels aloud is the dramatic power displayed in the conversations. No novelist ever made his or her characters express themselves so simply or forcibly in their parts as she does. It would seem that we have lost in her one of our greatest playwrights. The unfolding of character in dialogue has not been better done by any of our dramatists, and has certainly not been approached by any other novelist. No novels make so immediate an appeal when declaimed as hers do. Even youthful audiences who are popularly supposed to be incapable of appreciating the subtlety of her wit are quickly entranced.—S. P. B. Mals.

Fishes Are Good Smellers.
Fishes possess a keen faculty of smelling. Examination of the nostrils of a fish reveals the fact that they are not connected with the air tube system, as in most animals, but lead into blind pockets lined with delicate membranes well supplied with nerves. In fishes, water is not drawn through the nostrils but merely into the small pockets, and these may be emptied and refilled. The quantity of water brought into contact with the nerves of smell must be comparatively small. In some few fishes, as in the globe fishes and puffers, for example, there is no nasal pocket, the nerves being directed into external projections.

Tribe of "Fish Men" Inhabits Desert Wastes Bordering Lake Rudolf, in Kenya Colony.

The El Molo, a tribe of "fish-men" who inhabit the desert wastes bordering Lake Rudolf, in Kenya Colony, Africa, are undoubtedly the most amazing race of human beings. This tribe represents the only known specimens of semi-amphibious people, and it is a curious fact that any tribesman dies if he is kept from water for about three hours. As a rule they drink every hour during the day, for even an hour and a half without water causes cracking and bleeding of the lips.

The El Molo tribesmen spend their days swimming in the waters of Lake Rudolf, and fishing from frail rafts constructed of palm branches. Fish is almost their only diet, and they have no opportunity of varying their menu unless they are fortunate enough to spear a hippopotamus.

The water of Lake Rudolf is undrinkable to any one but the El Molo, for it contains a large quantity of soda and has an objectionable taste. The proportion of soda in the lake increases yearly, and it is believed to be this fact that has caused the "fish-men" to become a deformed race.

How Lifeboat Was Invented.

One day a man named Wouldhave was out walking when he was asked by an old woman to help her lift a can of water which she had filled by means of a broken wooden bowl.

The bowl was floating on the surface of the water, and as he talked to the woman, Wouldhave turned it over with his finger. It immediately righted itself. Amused by its antics he repeated the performance; then it struck him that he had made a wonderful discovery. The result of his chance meeting was the self-righting lifeboat, which was designed by him on the lines of the broken bowl.

What he had discovered was that anything made of floating material and shaped like one-half of a basin could float only with its convex surface downwards. A boat made on these lines cannot remain upside down for more than an instant when it is turned over by a heavy sea.

Salvadorean Celebrations.

The people of Salvador celebrate March 15 as a holiday in honor of General Morazan, who was elected president in 1830 of the Central American federation. In 1832 he suppressed an insurrection against the federal government in Salvador, in 1838 a revolution in Guatemala and in 1842 in Costa Rica. The people of Salvador also celebrate March 1 as a holiday.

Peanut Oil.

Peanut oil is one of the prime necessities of the Chinese in South China, and means as much to them as olive oil to the Spaniard and as lard to the American. It is the cooking oil and foodstuff of the race. Consul LeRoy Webber reports from Hongkong that both imports and exports of the oil at Hongkong are steadily increasing. During the first quarter of 1923 imports reached the high total of $738,796, and exports $571,920. Large stocks of peanut oil are always maintained in Hongkong. Most of the local oil is crushed from nuts grown in the colony, in South China and in North China. Exports are shipped chiefly to nearby markets in South China, the Straits Settlement, the United States, Indo-China, Siam, the Philippines and Canada.

One Man Shakespeare.

A professional writer gets many of his ideas at home. He may pick up a vigorous thought while fixing the furnace. He may frame a timely phrase at the supper table or even at cards.

For instance, Mr. and Mrs. Shakespeare were opponents at bridge.

The bard of Avon has just bid four spades.

"I double," announced Mrs. Shakespeare.

"Double, double, toil and trouble," sighed gentle Will, as he laboriously proceeded to lose two tricks.

Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"They never get too old for romance," smiled the House Detective.

"No," agreed the Hotel Stenographer, following the direction of his index finger to a man and woman, about 35, in deep and earnest conversation on a sofa in Peacock alley. "But she will have less trouble when married than a younger woman would have with a young husband.

"A young woman who marries thinks her husband is full of romance. After she marries she is hurt to find that in spite of the romance there is plenty of time for steak and potatoes.

"She gets the idea that all he needs for dinner is a cozy corner and copy of Mrs. Browning's poems, but she finds that before she can cozy corner or read poetry to him she has to lay a foundation of ham and cabbage.

"She believes all the things he said about wanting to be with her on a tropical island, where they wear few clothes and sing the hours away to a uke, but before the ceremony is three hours old, she finds that even on a desert island she will have to stuff the brute with fish chowder before he will even listen to the notes of the ukelele.

"The way to a woman's heart may be thru her ear, Kelly, but, take it from me, if you want to reach a man's heart without a single detour you must go in a direct line down his throat. His heart may beat for you alone but if you do not properly fill his stomach you will find that same heart beating loud and long for some other Jane, who can handle a pot roast and manure a chicken for frying.

"That woman is old enough to know that if you do not feed them they will run out on you and if you overfeed them, they go to sleep, so a married woman's best friend is a good cook!"

BLOOD POISON
CAUSED DEATH

Asa Bryon Glick, Prominent Farm-
er, Passed Away at His Home.

Burned Little Finger and Whole System
Was Affected—Past Master of
Grange, Clerk of Washington Town-
ship and Member of Philos Lodge.

Asa B. Glick died at his home in Washington township at 4:30 o'clock
this morning.

About a week ago, while Mr. Glick
was assisting a neighbor, Edward Leist, with his butchering, he burned
the finger of his left hand, when the
member came in contact with the bale
of the kettle of hot water. The wound
at first did not give him much trouble
but inside of twenty-four hours it be-
came very painful and he sought medical aid. The burned portion of his finger was directly over a previous
wound to the same finger sustained
some years ago and it is thought that
this old wound carried some hidden
poison and was released when his
finger was burned. Mr. Glick suffered untold agony, but bore up under the ordeal. He lapsed into unconsciousness Thursday evening and failed
to rally.

Asa Bryon Glick was born in Washington township May 23, 1878, and
was the son of Caleb and Anna Fisher
Glick. He married Miss Viola Leist in Stoutsville September 8, 1904. His wife and two daughters survive. The
children are Miss Alma Ruth Glick, a
student at the Ohio State university
and Dorothy M. Glick, at home.

Of his immediate family there are
living his father, Caleb Glick and one
sister, Eda, wife of George Bolender,
of Jackson township.

Asa Glick was a most likable man
and had a host of friends. He was one of the foremost farmers of this community. He was a past master of
the Washington grange and was clerk
of the Washington township board of
education and a member of Philos

Low Percentage of Eggs is Result of
Poor Management.

The honor roll for Ohio poultrymen
has been increased by 28 names in the
year just past.

Of more than 1200 poultrymen who
kept records on their flocks from November 1, 1922 to November 1, 1923 in
cooperation with the Ohio State university, 28 had flocks that produced
better than 160 eggs a hen for the
year. A fair average in the opinion of
poultry specialists, is 120 eggs a year
per hen.

Two flocks averaged better than 200 eggs per hen, the others scaling
down gradually to 160.6. In size these 28 flocks which are owned by farmers
in 21 Ohio counties, averaged about
200 birds each, with one or two above
400 and three below 100 individuals.

Ohio's record, says G. S. Vickers,
poultry extension specialist at the
university, compares favorably with
that of any other state. "The record
shows that it is possible with good
chickens and good management," he
continues, "to make high production
in Ohio. The main reason our state
average is so low is more because of
the poultrymen than the poultry. Better management is our chief need."

"Some of the records for the year
run down as low as 40 eggs a hen. I am not positive, but I believe, with
good management, I could make buz-
zards average that high."

"Some poultrymen, according to the
records, made less than 10 cents an
hour over and above all expenses for
their labor. They might just as well
have gone rabbit hunting. Men with
such low financial returns had flocks
that produced pitifully few eggs per
hen."

AUTO TAGS.

Automobile owners will be permitted to drive their cars with the 1923
licenses until February first according
to a telegram from Secretary of State
Thad H. Brown to Mayor George M.
Fitzpatrick.

The telegram is as follows: "Request that you permit the use of Ohio
Twenty-three licenses plates until January thirty-first."

Honor Welsh Patron Saint.

In Queensland March 1 is kept as a
holiday sacred to St. David, the patron
saint of Wales, who resided in Mene-
via, which early became a popular
place of pilgrimage. William the Conqueror, Henry II and Edward I went to this place. Two pilgrimages to Menevia were commonly regarded as
the equivalent of one pilgrimage to Rome.

AMUSEMENTS

On a salary of $7.50 a week, Jimmy Kirk (Walter Hiers) is a firm believer in M. Coue and every day in every way he is getting richer and richer, but upon the reduction of his salary to six dollars he is at his wits' end. But a man with ambition is not to be downed. So Jimmy purchases a small strip of land next to the Zavina National bank. It is here that he expects to establish himself in business, but when he finds that the bank extends an illegal foot over his property, every thing takes a turn for the better. "Move it off or buy me out," commands Jimmy of the bank president, who does buy him out and at Kirk's price.

It is now that Jimmy has his inning, for is he not in the position to ask Mamie Smith (Jacqueline Logan), daughter of the bank president to marry him? His proposal and acceptance come after many amusing incidents and genuine thrills have taken place. The plot is interesting, the action fast moving and the acting of the star and Miss Logan is wholly satisfying. Others in a thoroughly capable supporting cast are Ricardo Cortez, Chas. Ogle, Lucile Ward, Robert Dudley, Guy Oliver, Clarence Burton and Cullen Tate.

With cows and a De Laval Separator, you are sure of a good living and often something besides. With cream or butter to sell, bringing in a steady cash income; with milk, cream and butter for your table; and with skim-milk to raise calves, pigs and chickens, you are absolutely safe.

And the De Laval Separator has done more than any other factor to make this so. It is the original separator, skims cleaner under all conditions, wears longer, and is easier to operate and clean than any other. We shall be glad to prove this to you. Give us an opportunity.

Easy to Thread.
A Redditch needle maker has invented a new kind of needle which
makes "threading" much more easy
than with the orthodox type. His needle, instead of having a complete loop
for its eye, has a tiny gap in the loop,
into which the thread can be slipped
instantly without the wearisome dodg-
ing that the present type requires.

TWO THEORIES PUT FORTH

Scientists Have Disagreed as to the Composition of the Chemical
Elements.

It is an old question, "Are the
seventy-odd chemical elements really
elementary, or are they compounded
of something still more elementary?"
In the light of the discoveries of the
last few years about radium one authority recurs to a theory, advocated
by him many years ago, that as the
planets are evolved out of the original
nebula which gave birth to the solar
system the chemical elements themselves were also evolved out of some-
thing far less complex than themselves. The fact that existing nebu-
lae are very simple in composition,
while stars in various stages of development exhibit more and more complexity until in solidified bodies, like
the earth, a great number of chemical
elements with a myriad of compounds
are found, is regarded as strongly supporting this theory. The phenomenon
of radium leads to the additional suggestion that as in the development of
the heavenly bodies we seem to see
the growth of the elements, so in
radioactivity we witness their decay.—
Exchange.

Washington a Fast Wooer.

Washington was in his twenty-fifth
year when, taking dinner at a friend's
house, he met young, pretty and wid-
owed Martha Custis. He could fix
none of his attention on eating because
he had concentrated it all on the allur-
ing widow, whose invitation to tea for
that evening he fervently accepted,
says the Detroit News.

He left her home late that night only
to reappear there early the next morn-
ing. Before noon they were engaged,
and in a few days the "knot was tied."
Martha in silk and satin, laces and
brocade, with pearls around her throat
and in her ears—and George in blue
and silver trimmed with scarlet, and
with gold buckles at his knees and on
his shoes.

Immediately following the ceremony
they left for Mount Vernon, the bride
in a "coach and six," and the bridegroom on horseback, riding proudly
alongside.

Beauty Contest.

There was a commotion on the
strand, but the guests on the hotel
veranda were unable to determine what
it was all about. Bathing girls were
apparently forming in line and camera
men seemed to be active. Some lan-
guid interest was taken, so when Hoffy
came straggling up, he was hailed by his friend Cutbert.

"Did you see the excitement?"
"Yes," said Hoffy.
"What's up now?" inquired the other.
"Beauty contest on the beach."
"Hub?"
"Between the wets and the dries."

GOLD IS USED ON POTTERY

Its Value for Gilding Lies in Its Resistance to Oxidization—Not Expensive.

Gold is used on pottery either for
gilding or as a coloring agent in glazes.
Its value lies in its resistance to oxidi-
zation and the fineness of the layer
that can be produced, for which reason
it is not an expensive stain. The aid
of a flux is employed in application
and mercurous oxide is found to reduce
the amount of gold required. The following mixture is used:

Fifteen parts of black mercurous oxide,
2.5 parts of basic bismuth nitrate
and 0.3 parts of melted borax. The
addition of three parts of silver carbonate to this composition produces a
greenish tint. After firing in the muffler the gold has a matt surface and
must be polished with bloodstone or
agate. A cheaper process, which does
not require polishing after the burn, is
the use of glanzold or Meissen gold,
a preparation of gold solution with an
organic medium such as turpentine,
lavender oil or a balsam or resin. As
a coloring agent in glazes, gold produces shades from violet to purple and
red, of which the best known is purple
of Cassius, a lake of precipitated gold
with metallic hydroxide, preferably
that of tin, which was formerly regarded as a definite compound. The presence of ammonia or alum in the
stannous chloride solution produces
shades from dark to rose purple and
the tint may be further modified by
the substitution of antimony or mag-
nesia for tin. Choice of flux materially
influences the color.—Washington Star.

SCARLET DEEP-SEA SHRIMPS

Specimens Fished Up in the Mediterranean at a Depth of More Than a Mile.

A shrimp, a magnificent creature a
foot long, with feelers a yard in
length, was among the specimens fished
up in the Mediterranean at a depth of
more than a mile, in researches conducted by the late prince of Monaco.
The prince spent much of his spare
time dredging in deep waters for
strange creatures which live in the in-
ky, black, icy-cold abysses of the sea.

The Mediterranean creature is of a
gorgeous red color, and has feathered
feet. It is pleasant to eat, and large
enough that one shrimp is sufficient
for a good meal for a hungry man.
But the oddest part about it is the
color. Since in the depths at which it
lives the darkness is equal to that of
the deepest mine, it is difficult to
imagine why it should possess this
scarlet hue.

Nine men were held in the Alexandria, Ky., jail as a sequel to a prohibition raid on two farm houses near
that town, which resulted in the kill-
ing of one man, Lawrence Osage, 37,
of Newport, Ky.

HARTMAN THEATER

The movement of one of the largest
theatrical troupes from New York has
been undertaken by the Shuberts,
who will present the latest version of
"The Passing Show" the new 1923 edition, at the Hartman theater, Colum-
bus, the week commencing Monday,
January 14. It moved out of the Winter Garden in its entirety and included without a doubt, the heaviest production material ever transported with
any theatrical organization. Since
the organization of "The Passing
Show" eleven years ago, Columbus
has seen the various revues emanating
from the famous Winter Garden.
Famed for its spectacular features
and noted for its excellent combination of artists, the Winter Garden
company has this year excelled all
previous records. The costuming,
scenic effects and elaborate mechan-
ical devices which contribute to this
stupendous musical revel, mark the
highest attainment in the Winter Garden history. There are over 100 girls
grouped in 24 musical diversions all of
them arrayed in the very latest Winter Garden fashions. The Winter Garden has never been noted for its dis-
play of street costumes, but it has be-
come nationally known for its display
of state costumes. It has been said
that there is more originality in the
new Winter Garden designs than has
ever before been seen. Two features
which caused nothing short a sensation during the run of "The Passing
Show" in New York are the mechanical combinations which go to make up
the "Living Curtain" and the "Living Chandelier." In addition to these
novelties the production takes in, in
all, 28 scenes. The splendid company
which has carried "The Passing
Show" thru its several months in New York, includes Ted Lewis, popularly
referred to as the "High Hatted Trage-
dian of Song" with his Musical Clowns
George Hassell, George Jessel, Frank
Gaby, Louise Dose, Vera Ross, Perry
Askam, Hattie Darling and many others. Melodious music has been provided by Sigmund Romberg and Jean Schwartz, both noted for their
former contributions. Mail orders

TANGLED ROW

By AGNES G. BROGAN

BASIL BROOKS looked from the window of his country boarding house, on the same wearisome scene; there were others who thought this beautiful countryside far from wearisome. It may have been that the sick man's state of mind was responsible for his discontent. The doctor had assured him that strained nerves would mend in the restful atmosphere.

"No pretentious retreat of neurotics," his doctor advised, "but just simple, wholesome country." And that was what the man of great business concern found in Sweet Briar. So far, it bored him inexpressibly. From his white-curtained high window, he saw always, a church opposite. When the light at sundown shone through the stained glass, he could read there distinctly the words, "Betsy Jane Morrow."

Basil turned from the cottage window to walk down the narrow stair of the country house, and out into the night. He went aimlessly down a crooked lane. Behind old rambling houses lay a lovely stream, silver in the moonlight. In dooryards men sat companionably with their pipes. In flower-bordered gardens children played. Basil felt keenly his solitary condition. Not a friendly soul with whom to exchange a good evening. And he reflected as he walked along, even in great New York his friends numbered few. Could he call those with whom he associated as the demand of business left him scant leisure—friends indeed? Or were they merely congenial acquaintances? And the young women, whom Basil had known—well, he was resigned to his disappointment there; again, perhaps the result of an over-wearied mind. But in the recesses of that mind he carried an ideal—a fair and gentle young woman, comforting. Before him mentally flashed a well-known name, "Betsy Jane Morrow." Basil smiled, and a friendly stroller took the smile for greeting.

"How do, stranger," remarked the old man; "nice night for a walk." Presently they came to a refreshing picture—a small white house, shining in its neatness, an inviting garden, ruffled white curtains at the windows—inside the glow of shaded lights. "Now, this little place," went on the old man, "was the only decently neat house in Tangled Row. Miss Betsy

Jane Morrow"—Basil stared—"used to live here. An' she kept it up 'til she died an' old woman. Then she willed it to a granddaughter, on condition that she come an' live in it. The granddaughter was an orphan, working in a city office. Only been working since her father died, an' not bein' used to it, was peeked like. But she come out here, an' land! she's changed the whole Row. Seems you can most see the places improve, beginning near her. Shouldn't wonder after she's here a spell, if the Row won't be a place to be proud of."

Basil had not hoped to be interested, but he was. It may have been a personal interest in the late "Betsy Jane Morrow." "Why didn't the lady improve the place in her lifetime?" he asked.

The old man eagerly continued his tale. "You see," he said, "Betsy Jane" was a born fault-finder. Complained enough about her neighbors' slackness, that's sure. But that didn't seem to stir 'em up any, so she bore with 'em—none too patient. When this young woman comes to live in the empty house, my son's wife says to me—we live in the Row—I'll have more worryments to do this and that, to my house an' garden, I suppose, now that a relative of old Mrs. Morrow is going to be neighbor. But 'Betsy Jane's' granddaughter came a smilin' to admire the plucky old flowers in our yard, and told us how glad she was to have near neighbors, an' how kind everyone was makin' her welcome. An' the folks got to tellin' one another all the pleasant things she had said about 'em, like they'd told all the complainin' things old 'Betsy Jane' had said. And everyone grew sort of friendly. An' when the women got through helpin' the new young woman with her garden, an' fixin' up her house, why, naturally, they took to fixin' up their own—leastways those on either side."

Basil stopped deliberately, to look through ruffled curtains, to where in the light of a shaded lamp could be seen the face of a young woman. The face in the lamplight did not take from the old man's tribute.

When the bells of the village church called next morning, across the meadows, the man of tired nerves found himself answering the call. There in the light of the colored glass window sat the girl of Tangled Row, a fair and gentle young woman with lips curved as though in a smile of habitual content. Basil's ideal surely personified. A woman who could "make her own happy condition, in place of seeking."

Basil, moving down the aisle after service, absently repeated the name of the memorial window—"Betsy Jane

Morrow."

The young woman of Tangled Row turned to him. "You spoke to me?" she questioned.

"The name on the window," Basil apologized.

"Also, my own," said the girl.

"You look like a new and happy man," his associates told Basil upon his return.

"I am married to 'Betsy Jane Morrow,'" he explained.

"From Dan to Bee-sheba."

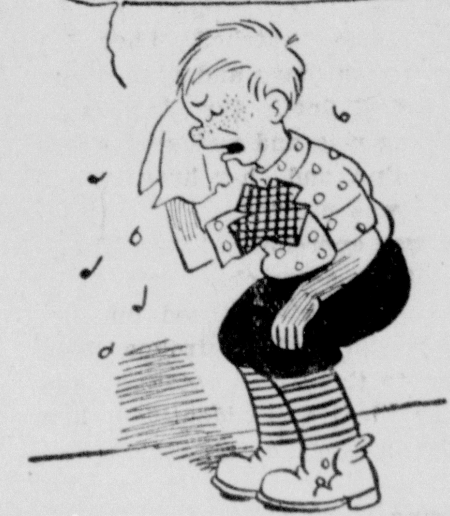

The familiar expression "From Dan to Beersheba" originally was used to denote the entire extent of the holy land, and afterward applied to any region when referring to its whole length, says the Detroit News. Dan was the most northern city in the "land of promise" and Beersheba the most southern one; hence the saying "From Dan to Beersheba" came to mean the entire extent of the country.

The Grande Chartreuse.

The Grande Chartreuse was the original monastery of the Carthusians, founded in 1804. It is situated among the mountains in the French department of Isere, about fourteen miles northeast of Grenoble, and is famous for an aromatic cordial made by the monks, the secret of which they have long possessed. The monastery was despoiled during the French revolution, and the inmates exiled from 1796 to 1816. They returned after the restoration of Louis XVIII (1814), but never recovered their former wealth and influence.

Sir Roger de Coverley.

The name is that of a member of an imaginary club, under whose auspices the Spectator was supposed to be edited. Sir Roger is the type of an English gentleman of the time of Queen Anne (1702-1714), and figures in thirty papers of the Spectator. He is noted for his modesty, generosity and hospitality. The name Sir Roger de Coverley was also given to a dance, similar to the Virginia reel, and supposed to have been the original of it. The title is derived from the English squire described in the Spectator.

Friction Matches.

Friction matches first came into use in 1833, and as late as 1850 were regarded as too dangerous to be transported by rail. The first sulphur matches put on the market came in square blocks of wood split well down, from which individual matches might be broken. When ignited, a most offensive sulphur odor arose. The first individual matches, put up in small boxes, were imported from Sweden in the early eighties, and were a great improvement over the old sulphur match.

Age-Old Fashions in Hairdressing.

Hair naturally grows outwards in all directions, and the first man who found it falling in front of his eyes and brushed it aside must have been the first man to "part" his hair!

Coming to ages, of which we have some definite knowledge, we find hairdressing in different fashions as far back as there are writings or monuments to record anything at all. So plaiting, which implies parting, is mentioned in the Bible. The Babylonians and Egyptians cultivated rows of elaborate curls, while the Greeks and Romans were short clipped.

Our modern parting dates back about 120 years. Before that gentlemen wore wigs over their own close-cropped polls. Wigs went out and since the close crop too nearly resembled the convict, hair was allowed to grow and parted as it is at present.

Assaulted Mrs. Josephine Richardson With Intent to Kill.

Woman Was on Way to Attend Funeral of Her Mother and Accepted Ride With Stranger Who Beat Her Over the Head With a Monkey Wrench.

The Franklin county jury in the case of Guy Ream, charged with assault with intent to kill Mrs. Josephine Richardson, of Cleveland, June 5, 1923, returned a verdict of guilty on the sixth ballot Thursday evening.

Mrs. Richardson, who is a sister of E. C. Bowman, of this city, came to Columbus at 1:40 a. m., June 5, to attend the funeral of her mother. Upon her arrival at the Union station, Columbus, she was unable to make connections with a street car and accepted a ride with a strange man who said he was going north. She was taken to the River road and brutally assaulted.

Stopping his automobile, presumably to make some repair, the man attacked her with a monkey wrench and beat her over the head. She was left unconscious by the roadside. Her skull was fractured and she suffered loss of senses of taste and smell.

A colored family of that neighborhood were awakened by a noise on their porch and they found her groping blindly for the door. She was taken to White Cross hospital where a woman detective watched at her bedside for several days and nights. She was identified finally thru initials on her wedding ring and muttered words from her lips, and her husband in Cleveland was notified.

Ream was apprehended thru identification of his automobile, said to be the same one which picked up Mrs. Richardson. She and a patrolman both drove up to the Union station and Mrs. Richardson also identified him while she was on the witness stand.

The biggest sensation in the trial was sprung when Miss Irene Immel, formerly of this city, testified that Ream had offered $5000 if she would testify she had been in his company the night of the attack. Ream's defense was an alibi, which failed miserably to hold up under cross-examination.

Ream took the stand in the face of Miss Immel's testimony and declared she was the woman who had accompanied him the night of June 4. He met her earlier in the evening, he said, and they rode to the Storage dam, remaining there until after midnight.
